

5

A process is described for the manufacture a crystalline molecular sieve layer on a support, which process comprises impregnation of the support with an impregnating material prior to deposition of an crystalline molecular sieve layer and subsequent removal of substantially all the impregnating material.

SECRET